

*Plática/Conversation to Promote Latino Health
Denver, Colorado, August 19, 2008
Resource Guide*

*Prepared by Dr. Robert Muñoz, Jr.
Healthy Community Investments*

The Resource Guide for organizations participating in the Plática/Conversation to Promote Latino Health is funded by the Office of Health Disparities of the Colorado Department of Public Health & Environment (CDPHE). The Office of Health Disparities Offices is a state program of multicultural professionals dedicated to eliminating racial and ethnic health disparities in Colorado, by fostering systems change and capacity building through multi-sectoral collaboration.

This resource guide was developed as part of a Plática/Conversation to Promote Latino Health, an event focusing on (1) Health disparities affecting Latino communities, (2) planning strategies for Latino community involvement in public health projects and (3) facilitating communication between CDPHE programs and the community. During the Plática, participants identified existing resources and programs, needed resources and programs, gaps in resources and programs, and strategies for promoting health and addressing disparities. For more information on the proceedings, see Report on the Plática/Conversation to Promote Latino Health.

This resource is not meant to include all organizations providing health resources for Latinos, only organizations participating in Plática/Conversation to Promote Latino Health. Inclusion of the organization does not constitute an endorsement of these organizations by the Office of Health Disparities. The guide's intent is to list organizations working in different health areas that provide direct services or assist clients in seeking health prevention or health delivery resources. Readers should contact each organization to find out about available resources, eligibility requirements, costs and other needed information.

The resource guide presents organizational information in two ways: (1) area of health, disease and resources for quick reference and (2) alphabetical listing of organizations. The first listing, type of organization, is set up for quick reference. The second listing, the alphabetical listing of organizations, provides an overview of the services and resources provided by each organization. A unique element of this resource guide is that the alphabetical listing of organizations also includes a category for opportunities for collaboration and assistance by others.

AMERICAN DIABETES ASSOCIATION/ POR TU FAMILIA PROGRAM

1. Service provided or program focus: Diabetes Day, one of the components of Por Tu Familia, Diabetes Day, is a program that targets the Latino community through churches. This best-practice, evidenced-based component provides churches with a foundation to assist with integrating health promotion and disease prevention messages and healthy living tips into the life of the family and church. Churches provide an excellent setting for a comprehensive grassroots obesity prevention messages. Churches also offer strong leadership within the Latino community; they have a genuine concern about the health of Latino families and serve as a vital link between church members and the general community. Diabetes Day blends culture, churches, and an important message to Latino parents: you can take control of your child's health.

Health and Flavor in the Kitchen (Salud y sabor en la cocina), the second major component of Por Tu Familia is the bilingual Health and Flavor in the Kitchen (Salud y sabor en la cocina), a one-hour long culturally specific workshop designed to educate Latino parents about healthy eating for themselves and their children. This informative and highly interactive session informs Latinos about ways to prepare foods in a healthier way, to identify correct portion sizes for preparing healthy meals and to make healthier choices when eating outside the home. Latino parents also learn how to keep the flavor in their favorite recipes while reducing fat and carbohydrate content.

With All My Heart (De Todo Corazon), another component of the Por Tu Familia program is a fun and informative bilingual workshop, With All My Heart, that helps Latino parents understand what they can do to lower their children's risk of chronic diseases—namely, lose weight and increase physical activity on a regular basis. This best-practice, evidenced based workshop teaches Latino parents that there are four key behaviors that, collectively, can dramatically improve their children's chances of living a long, healthy life: eating right to maintain a healthy weight, increasing physical activity, avoiding smoking and taking their child to see a health care provider on a regular basis. As a result of participating in the workshop, parents learn activities that can be readily incorporated into their child's lives to increase physical activity.

Everybody Dance for Your Health! (Todos a Bailar Para su Salud!) gives Latinos the help and the inspiration they need to build a healthy, balanced routine for the months and years ahead. In this comprehensive workshop Latinos integrate physical activity, proper diet, and other healthy habits into their daily life. Por Tu Familia uses merengue, salsa, folklore, and other Latin dances to teach participants fun activities that can be readily incorporated into their family lives to increase physical activity and reduce their risk of heart disease and stroke. The focus is on helping participants build more physical activity into their existing routine, not creating new routines that are hard to fit into the day. Using Latin dances helps to get health messages about cardiovascular diseases and diabetes through songs. Participants are able to identify benefits of exercise for people at risk for cardiovascular diseases and diabetes as well as different forms of exercise. Each participant develops an individual action plan identifying modest changes they will make to increase their activity levels.
